

Enid Coleslaw

Amir Flesher

Science of the Mind

21 March 2008

Neo Emerges From the Cave and So Do I

The Matrix is like the grooviest movie ever in the like the history of film and stuff, and it's like about some deeper things, just like Plato's "Simile of the Cave" man. In the section of The Republic entitled "The Simile of the Cave", Plato writes, "Imagine...that there are men carrying all sorts of gear along behind the curtain wall, projecting and above it including figures of men and animals made of wood" (317).

Works Cited

Flesher, Amir. "The Agitated Glass of Water is Like the Agitated Mind." Humanities Science of the Mind Class, The Compass School, Westminster, VT. 12 March 2003.

Flesher, Amir "Dramatic Reading and Explanation of Parable of the Cave." Humanities Science of the Mind Class, The Compass School, Westminster, VT, 11 March 2003.

The Matrix. Dir. Andy Wachowski & Larry Wachowski. Perf. Keanu Reeves, Laurence Fishburne Carrie-Anne Moss. Warner Home Video, 1999.

Plato, trans. Desmond Lee, The Republic. New York: Penguin Classics, 1987.

A good reference for how to cite in MLA form can be found at:

<http://www.studyguide.org/MLAdocumentation.htm>